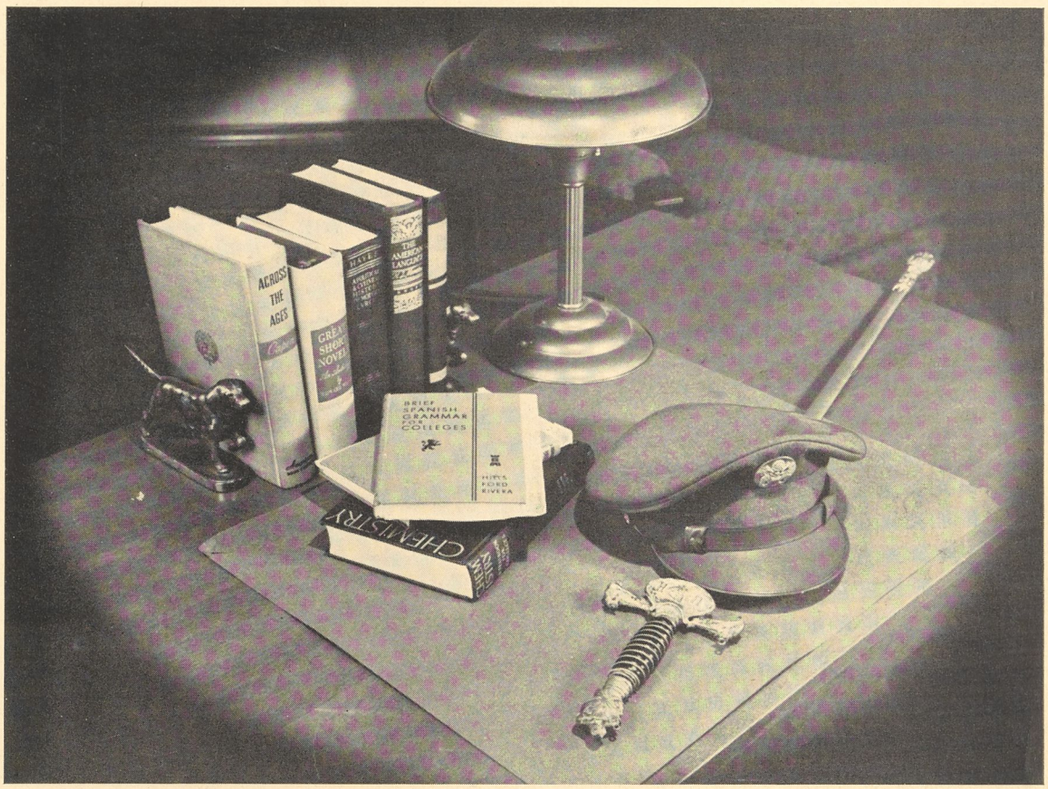
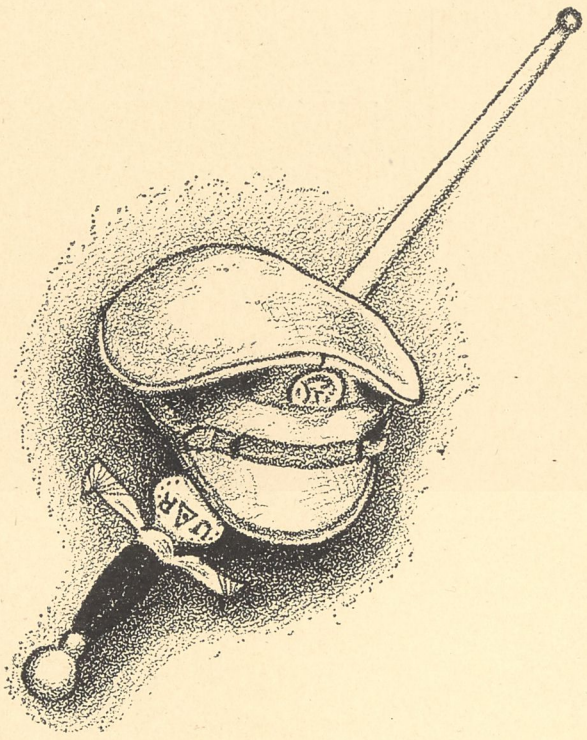
FOUNDER'S HALL



FOR a great number of us studies have been interrupted this year. Many of our young men have been sent to the far corners of the world to assume their duties in defense of the ideals upon which our College was founded and built.

We trust they will find themselves strengthened and fortified by something of the spirit of Christian faith and courage which has been kept alive on College Hill and passed down to them through the succeeding generations of Juniata students.

ALFARATA



IN THIS THE SECOND YEAR in which our country has been involved in a war, and in which there is turmoil and trouble the world over, we find we are faced with problems we had never dreamed we would have to face.

We are confronted with an entirely new pattern of world order to which we must adjust our thinking and our living. This sudden and drastic change should be accepted as a challenge for us to bring to the fore and maintain the high standards of Christian character, courage, and faith in a future world order built on these same principles. Not only should these chaotic times be a challenge to us, but a duty for each of us to assume his burden of responsibility and to play his part, no matter how small it be, in this great struggle for the freedom of humanity.

In such a period of uncertainty and confusion, perhaps things like College annuals may be looked upon as superficial and unnecessary, but we, the staff, welcome this opportunity to look back over the past year in this the twenty-fifth volume of our annual, the ALFARATA.

We look back, not as a way of escaping the problems we must face immediately, but as a source of receiving inspiration which may be got only from a heritage as rich and great as ours.

Looking at the history of our College in retrospect we find an institution built with hard work, sacrifice, determination, and love, and find in it a pattern by which we, as the potential post-war generation, may rebuild the world. Let us not for a moment betray this trust or lay aside our responsibilities for a less worthy aim!

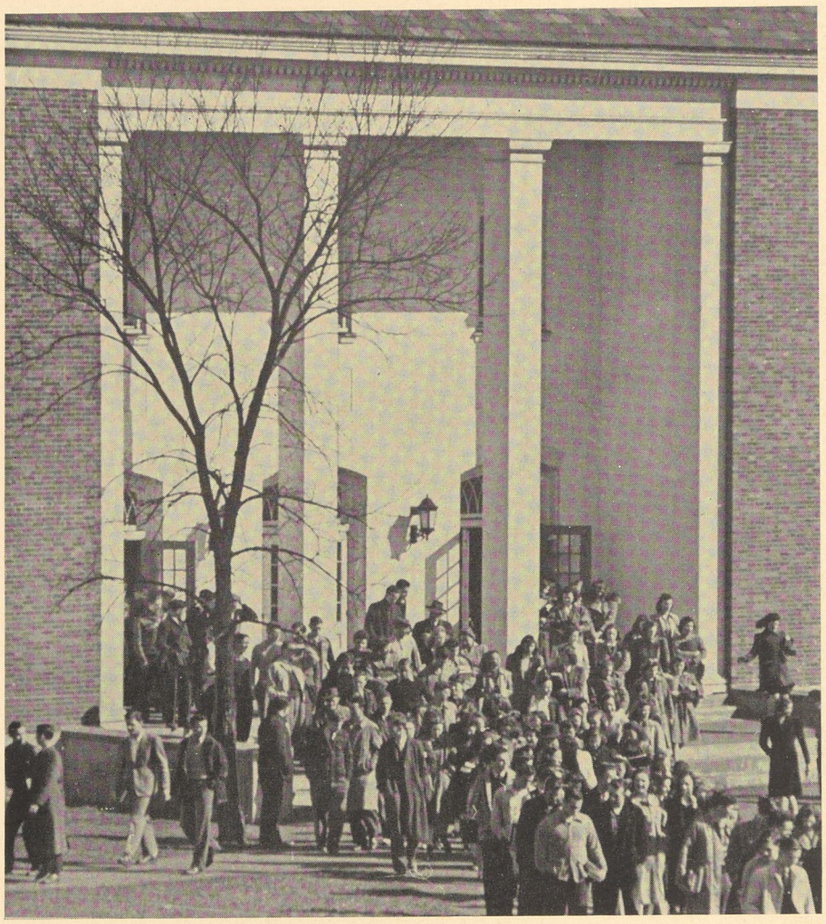
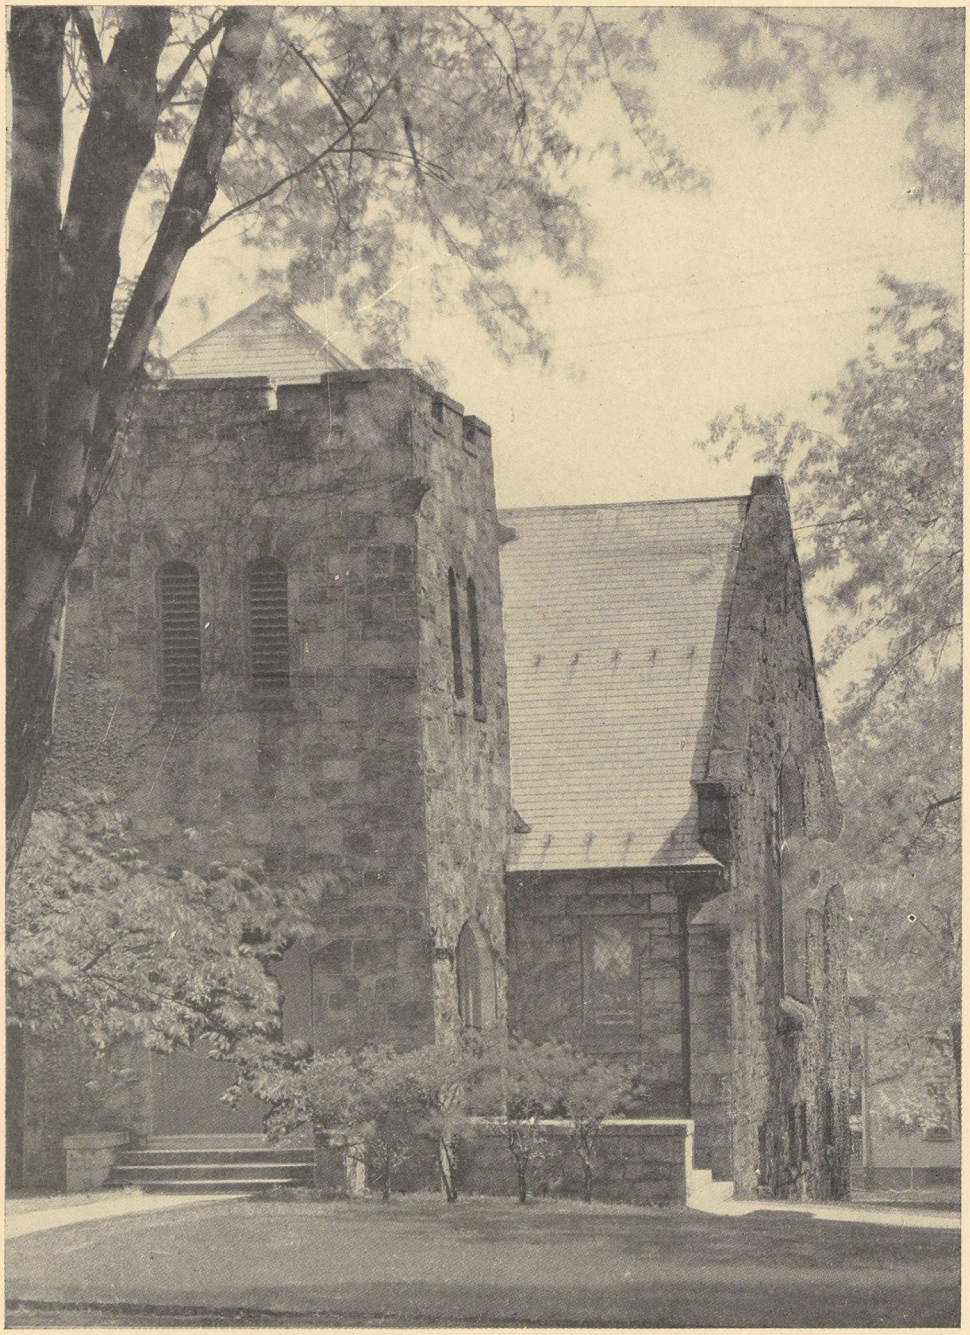
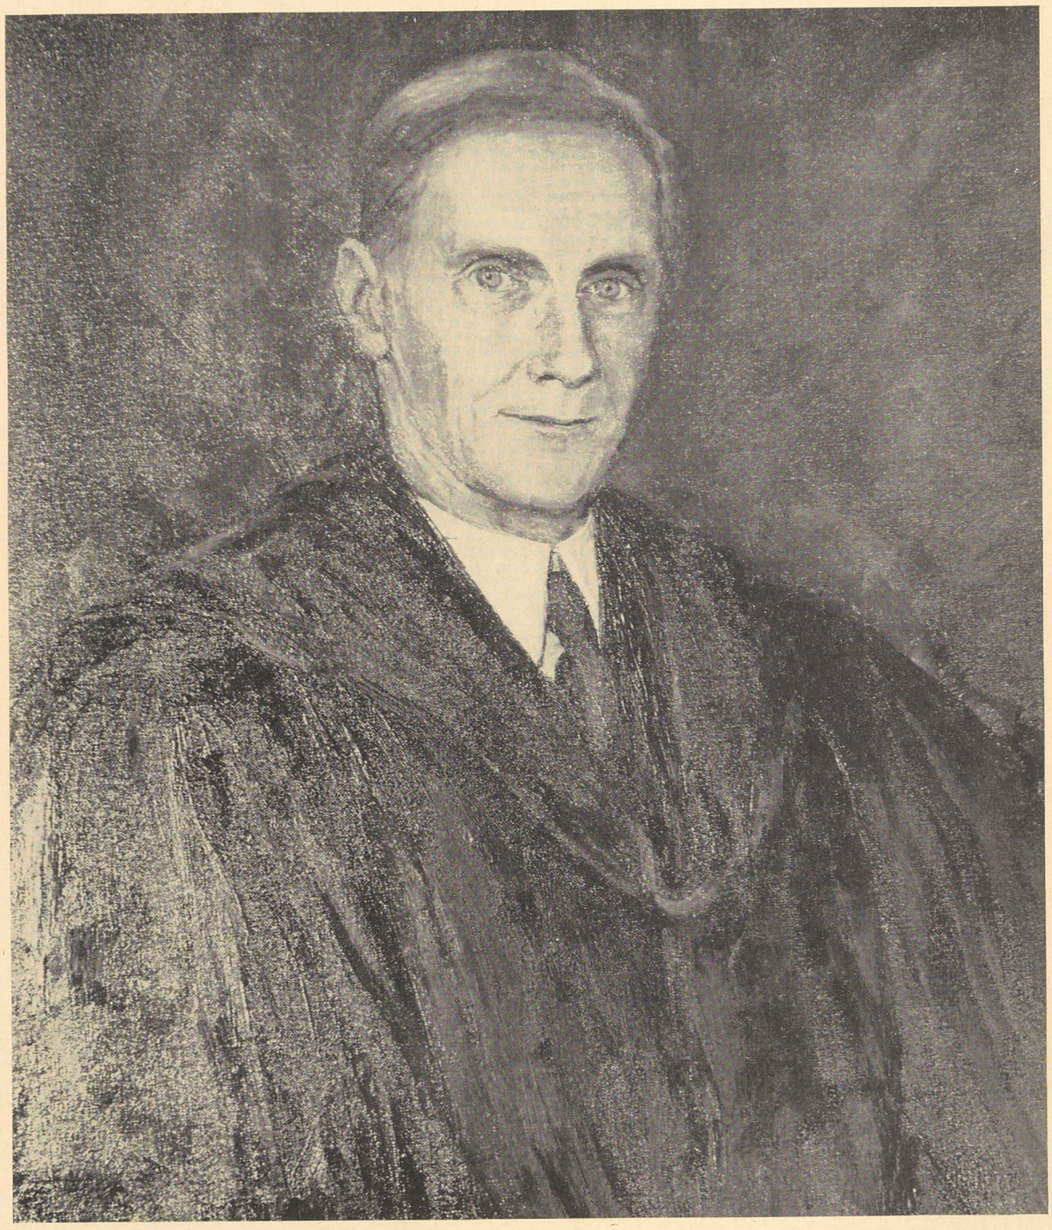
ACADEMIC



ACCELERATED programs, mid-year graduations, and unfinished courses are new experiences to Juniata. However, these new experiences are not changing our old ideals, for we believe that today, as always, wisdom and spiritual growth should be foremost in the minds of our students.



STONE CHURCH



DR. CHARLES CALVERT ELLIS

President of Juniata College

PRESIDENT ELLIS

In the life of a College there is a rapidly shifting scene of persons and experiences—their very transitory character often making them appear insignificant and unimportant. In order to integrate these experiences into a real pattern, both in the life of the individual and in the life of the College, there must be solid bases or roots. We must maintain the unchanging traditions from the rich heritage and background of the College, and men who are living examples keep alive the Christian principles on which the College was founded. In the foremost of this group of men is Dr. Charles C. Ellis, President of Juniata College from 1930–1943. To countless students across the years he has stood with two-fold meaning—representing the assurance and security underlying our College experiences, and as a symbol of the true, upright principles which should dominate our lives any time, anywhere.

Christian, scholar, gentleman, friend, are all embodied in Dr. Ellis, a deep-rooted, firmly believed philosophy of the Christian life as the good life, a background of education, thorough, far-reaching and continuing; a manner, polished and charming in its old school tradition, and a helping hand stretched forth to counsel, cheer, and entertain, are all smoothly integrated parts of his personality.

From the year 1930, when Dr. Ellis became President of Juniata, there has been a steady upward trend both within the College itself and in the College's relations to other organizations. The greatest honor was the admission of Juniata into the American Association of Universities in 1940, a credit to the administration and faculty as a whole. Oller Hall was built at a cost of $130,000, and other buildings were renovated. The curriculum was revised, and the faculty was strengthened in numbers during this period. In direct contact with the students, under President Ellis, the Student Senate was organized, and the Placement Service for graduates was established. Over this span of years, Dr. Ellis, in addition to the presidency of the College, held the office of the President of the Association of College Presidents as well as Chairman of the General Education Board of the Church of the Brethren, Moderator of the annual conferences, and, as always, his lecturing.

And so, as the days of this last semester of 1942–1943 slip into the final months and weeks, it is with a growing feeling of sadness that we realize that one of the strongest and most secure forces of our College days is leaving, as we ourselves soon are. His contribution is to be found embodied in the high-minded, clear-thinking young men and women who have studied and worked under him across the years. He has endowed the College with his spirit, a ramification of the true spirit of the ideals of Christianity and humanity.

We will remember him not so much for any given act, or word, or accomplishment, as for the total impact of his whole personality. When the memories have taken their place as a part of the already rich heritage of Juniata, there will have been added all the benefits from a man who has been a symbol of the College itself—a true Juniatian.

THE FACULTY

Fifteen months of war has brought its reality to Juniata. We have adjusted ourselves to air-raid drills and rationing, but we are genuinely saddened by the calls upon our Juniata manpower. This year we have regretted to see a number of faculty members as well as many students leave College. We miss these people and anxiously look toward their return to Juniata.

However, those faculty members still at their teaching posts have also felt the effects of the war. Beyond filling vacant staff positions they have met a new challenge in changing student attitude. Realizing pressure from outside life and lacking the advantage of experience in such emergencies, student thought has tended to overemphasize work of wartime significance while discounting other factors considered important to a peace-time education. Thus the faculty has been pressed to reaffirm for the students the benefits of a well-rounded training, lest our liberal education become a "training for the duration."

THE FACULTY

But a still greater problem now faces our faculty—the responsibility of preparing to meet post-war demands. It is rather evident that two great obligations will rest upon a future College faculty. First there will be the task of repairing the effects of the present crippled educational program. Secondly, a changed post-war society will surely make new demands upon educational facilities. Preparation to educate for peace must begin now. Adequate preparation will demand experimentation in new principles and techniques. Broadened faculty-student relationships, for example, are but one area for improvement. Programs equal to the situations will require of their framers a vision free from prejudice and narrow tradition.

The faculty of Juniata will help to determine the College's ability to weather the present crisis, and they will surely affect her capacity to meet post-war conditions. Realizing these responsibilities upon the faculty, we students can better appreciate our indebtedness to our instructors and the necessity for our cooperation with them.

FRESHMEN

Bewildered, puzzled, yet inspired and determined, we, the Freshmen enter the doors of Juniata loaded down with baggage full of things we don't need but just couldn't leave behind; we settle into a room with a stranger. The dorm becomes home to us when our Big Sisters and Brothers hand us our key with a few welcoming remarks. The stranger who shares our room soon knows as much about us as Boswell about Sam Johnson. Before we realize it we are in the midst of hustle and bustle of classes, bull sessions, parties, and all the things that make College a busy life.

After that first week of deceptive ease and amusement we became aware that there was more to life at Juniata than just play when we faced the redoubtable, iron-jawed Hollis Zwicker and learned that an organization generally known as Freshman Tribunal met on Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. We found out about the punishments for disobeying regulations concerning "dinks," the Scout, name-cards, and Freshman duty. (Remember John Ake's green hair-ribbons, Karl Schmittle and his egg, Janie Blodgett and her hat, and, of course, the celebrated air-raid warden, Leo Mintz?)

We will remember Home-Coming Week and our mortal enemies, the Sophomores, who seem almost human now that we can look back upon the events that took place. The Sophomore President, Dave Brashear, can thank us for an enjoyable week-end spent in the company of some of our Freshman boys, while our elusive Chairman, Sam Hastings, made his escape. We hope that the Sophomores were not too disappointed because of the way events turned out.

We elected that polished gentleman, Samuel Wolfindin, as our President, and he did not fail to carry out his duties in a most conscientious and effective manner. Under his leadership the class worked together to put on a smooth Class Night performance as well as entertaining the entire student body with a "Show Boat" presentation.

FRESHMEN

Our class yields to none insofar as talents and abilities of its members are concerned. We were represented on the gridiron by such bonecrushers as "Salty" Gutshall, Jim Hitesman, "Vic" Rollo, Bill Goelz, Ray Tesi, Mate Hiney, Keith Bloom, Ray Andrews, and many other second-string men whose prospects look very good for next year. On the basketball floor there was a wealth of Freshman talent including stars like Ray Tesi, Dick Wareham, George Wineland, Eugene Brumbaugh, and "Vic" Rollo. Other Freshmen did their part capably by serving in the band, choir, and other organizations. Intellectually we were represented by the genii, Bill McClay, Harry McClay, and Llewellyn Merritt.

We must confess that all our time was not occupied in pursuits of an intellectual nature. Groups known as the Four S's and the D. D.'s have added much to the social and humorous side of our social life. What other class can boast a cardboard birthday cake or a farewell party to a member who was not leaving?

Besides the usual picture of Freshman days at Juniata, we must also add that we were the first class to enter J. C. in wartime. We boast the largest number of men to answer the first call and wish all the luck and success to those boys who were the first to trade their books for a gun and their pens for a bayonet. The next few years loom uncertainly for us, and few of the boys shall return to the campus until victory is won, but no matter how widely we may be separated we will always carry a little bit of Juniata with us. Founder's Clock shall still mark the passing hours; and though the war changes many things, we hope it will never change the ideals expressed in Juniata, the College set in a thousand hills.

ACTIVITIES

OFTENTIMES the most important experiences of a student's college days take place outside the classroom or laboratory. So, despite the added concentration of academic interests, campus organizations are carried on as normally as is possible.

A wide field is covered in the term Activities. Various clubs present opportunities to the student, together with others of like interest in his major field, or to further develop leisure-time activities, such as sports, music or writing. In addition to the organizations there are the specialized events in which the student body participates, by classes, groups, or as a whole.

This well-developed program of extra-curricular activities, going hand in hand with the strong academic foundation, go far toward making the Juniata man and woman a well-balanced smoothly integrated personality. —leaders on the campus today, leaders in the world tomorrow.

THE SENATE

Once upon a time Juniata got together and voted for a new representative body, a new Senate.

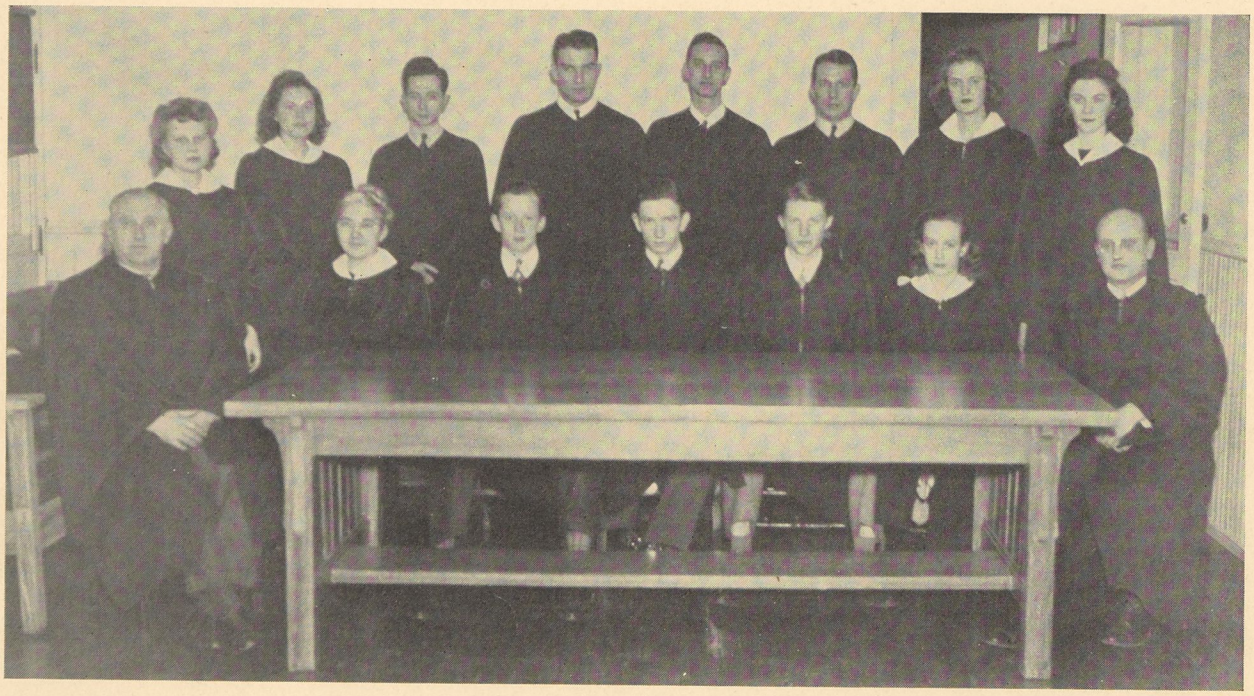
The favored twelve felt the honor and the responsibility deeply and worked hard all year, doing little tasks and a few bigger ones and trying their best to be the "hands" for the student body's "will." Then another spring rolled around, and once upon another time Juniata got together and voted for another representative body, another Senate.

So the story goes every year. It is an old theme, but not merely old; it is an old theme with variations. Each year brings new personalities into the dozen-round circle; new viewpoints, new attitudes freshen its functioning. Each year a new set of upperclassmen gets this first-hand experience in government. And, above all, each year the Senate steps a step beyond its routine work—important, yes—and does its little "extra."

This year's "extra" arose from suggestions and situations. At the suggestion of the Student Leadership Conference, the Senate added its efforts to those of the Administration and the Trustees, and a Recreation Room came into being within the four walls of the old chapel. Finding itself a responsible part of a chaotic world, the Senate did its infinitesimal bit by selling defense and service stamps on the campus.

Along with all other organizations during this year of war, the Senate had its losses. At midyears Hollis Zwicker went on his accelerated way, leaving a vacancy in the Freshman Chairmanship (later filled by Charles Bargerstock, '44), and late in February the Athletic Chairmanship suddenly gapped with the call to service of Charles Leeper.

At the end of the 1943 chapter of the old story, the Senate leaves its earnest hope that it may have represented well not only its student constituents, but also those qualities for which they elected it in the once upon a time.



WOMEN'S HOUSE COMMITTEE

In the Women's dormitory of Juniata, the abode of the Indian girls, the Alfaratas reign much as they did three hundred and fifty years ago. Their chief Squaw, Dean Spencer, counsels these maidens wisely and teaches them the art of living and eating harmoniously throughout the long winter snows and the spring rains, even when the braves must leave for the hunt. Miss Spencer is assisted by a House Committee which is represented by two members from each hall.

During the harvest season the girls relive the ancient scene as they ceremoniously, in costume, bring fire to light the log that first burned in our fireplace in the Social Rooms.

Gold and brown of autumn and copious fruit centerpieces dressed the dining-room for the annual Thanksgiving banquet which the Indian maidens put on for the entire student body with the help of Miss Mathias. Mr. Sam Stewart, of Huntingdon, the College lawyer, was the main speaker for the occasion, with Charles Catherman as toastmaster. The New Year was ushered in on College Hill by the squaws as they festively decorated the dining-hall once more for a banquet. Slim silver volumes, lettered in 1943 style, faced the next three hundred and sixty-five days bravely from the center of the tables as Dr. Binkley addressed and Tom Cooney toasted the diners.

The Women's House Committee functions in many other ways about the campus. As the members of the tribe trudge wearily from three-hour council exams the House Committee greets them cheerily with relaxing tea and music. Or late in the evening, when the Indians are tired and hungry, they feast on sandwiches and chocolate milk prepared by this same Committee.

The officers this year were: Irene Faucett, President; Mary Leet, Vice-President; Ruth Smith, Secretary; Betty Snider, Treasurer.

MEN'S HOUSE COMMITTEE

Have you had difficulty studying, fellows, because of the noise in the dormitories? Or have you found the dormitories to be a haven of rest and quiet? The praise or blame, whichever it might be, goes to the Hall Presidents who have been selected at the beginning of the school year by the Chairman of the House, Richard Long, for the maintenance of men's dorm regulations. They see to it that quiet is maintained in the evenings after 7.30 and with the assistance of "Perennial Mac" this has been the first year that lights out at midnight has been enforced. It has proved to be very successful by conserving electricity as well as reducing noise after the hour of twelve.

Late permissions for the fellows are obtained from the Chairman of the House for those who find a little time to engage in things other than study.

The Hall Presidents are always ready to help the student in any way possible, and they see that the permanent property is at all times maintained as it was in the beginning.

Meetings of the Committee with Dean Stayer are held monthly to talk over problems and to discuss what can be done to better dormitory conditions and to enforce rules. The fellows have cooperated completely with the Committee in relation to air-raid regulations by blacking out their rooms and remaining off the campus.

The Committee has at all times tried to uphold the traditions of the College with reference to the living conditions of the fellows in the dormitories.

FRESHMEN COMMITTEES

No longer the black-robed ogres of the Freshman class, the tribunal turned over a new leaf. Gone were those quaking Freshmen who trembled on Tuesday, only to trespass again on Wednesday. The new page called for a brother and sister spirit—to help and be helped! No more those penalties which meant little toward correcting the misdemeanor. Now if an unsuspecting Freshie were caught cutting campus, the pride of the upperclassmen in the appearance of College grounds was avenged by punishing the "hot feet" not the hothead. Or if a forgetful greenhorn were to overlook clock-watching for a night, gentle reminders were provided with man-sized clock signs stopped at 9.30 P.M. Shamed-faced, penitent Freshmen emerged from court in lieu of the indignant, revengeful victims of years before. A new page was started and on its success hangs the remaining chapters of the Committee's activities.

Spying, accusing, suspecting, and upperclass trickery of former days had, however, carried on to color the spirit between big and little brothers and sisters. "Helping" meant first overcoming the barrier that tradition had built up between the old and the new. Heart-to-heart talks finally proved successful in convincing the so-called underdogs that "it hurt the court as much as it hurt them." In no time at all the sanctity of tradition was restored: dinks adorned both the fair and the brawny; only the privileged upperclass frequented the diagonal and front steps; come nine-thirty each evening, comes a steady stream of fair Freshmen pouring out of Skip's and into their rooms; finally, come Tuesday nights and court could be dispensed with.

RELIGIOUS

Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. CABINETS

We hear a great deal today about "the man behind the man behind the guns." That's how the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Cabinet members serve their organizations.

Quietly and unobserved by most of us they meet together regularly with their respective presidents, Jane Glendenning and Glen Ebersole. With a mind to business as well as fun they plan the year's activities. This year it meant something new in interesting joint meetings and discussions. Community services in Huntingdon and vicinity, a "Pinafore Restaurant," the May Day breakfast, and a gala banquet completed another successful year of activity and service under the guidance of the Cabinets.

MINISTERIUM

Rise up O men of God!
Have done with lesser things!

These lines express the challenge the Student Ministerium has accepted.

Through coöperation with the City Ministerium, student ministers were given complete or partial charge of public worship services in Huntingdon. Several members have had charge of the devotions in chapel.

The Ministerium also holds meetings where mutual problems are discussed and outside speakers discuss topics of interest.

Thus by both doing and learning, these "men of God" are "rising up" to be His faithful servants.

The officers are: Raymond Day, President; Daniel Long, Vice-President; Philip Fletcher, Secretary.

CLUBS ✠ ✠

MARANATHA CLUB

"Even so come Lord Jesus."

Maranatha Club meets every Thursday to discuss Biblical topics. One meeting each month is devoted to the study of foreign missions. In addition to the regular leader, Mr. Sheldon Bard, outside speakers, including returned missionaries, bring messages to this group.

THE STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

"And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto ME."—John 12:32

The Volunteer group meets bi-weekly at which time student leaders share some meditation from the Word, and occasionally an outside speaker brings the message. Group prayer-meetings are held in the boys' and girls' dormitories every Monday evening, and also in the tower of the Stone Church, Friday morning.

DAY STUDENTS

Yes, day students have been rationed, too. The armed forces needed them. This is just one of the reasons for the drastic reduction in our membership. "The great migration" from the day students' quarters to the dorm which occurred just before Christmas vacation also contributed much to our diminished numbers.

Through this turbulent period of day-student history, the girls have managed to retain the group of officers with which they started in September—Esther McConahy, President; Louise Stayer, Secretary–Treasurer. The boys, however, have replaced officer after officer until an election is almost a bi-weekly affair. At the present time they are just between elections and have no officers.

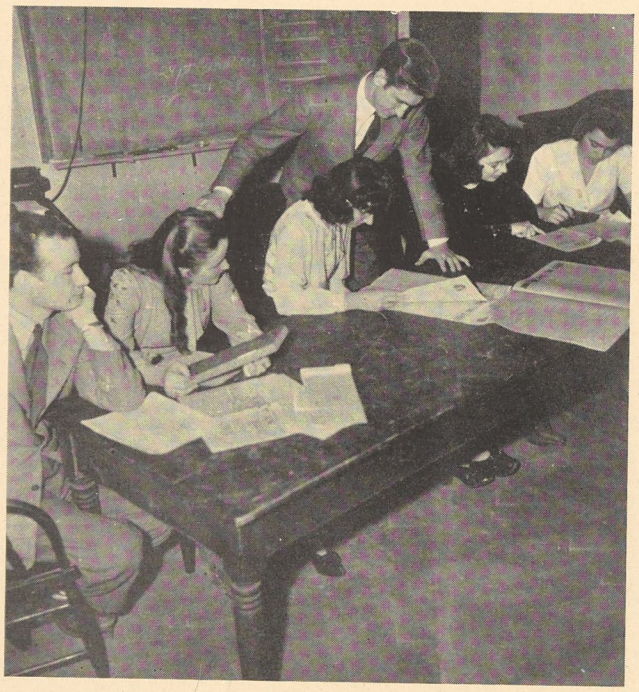
Although a few of our activities have been discontinued for the duration, the tea and the Christmas Party have become day-student traditions. The tea is given annually some time during the first two weeks of school to acquaint the new students with each other and the upperclassmen. The Christmas Party was held this year just before vacation. The clubroom had been gaily decorated for the occasion and everyone had a jolly good time carrying out the plans for the evening.

Our clubroom has been partially redecorated this year and the new paint and clean paper in one of the bedrooms inspired the girls to dress up the room for a more livable atmosphere and to keep up our morale. So while some things have been taken away, other things have been added.

PUBLICATIONS

"LITERARY GENII"

There is on campus a strange creature who dotes on words and is nourished by them, whose life-blood is ink, whose body is paper, who speaks incessantly and uses a strange private vocabulary of cuts, scoops, and ems, whose spirit is a composite of the spirits of editors, assistant editors, reporters, and scores of others. By general name we know him as the PUBLICATION. By particular calling he may be the ALFARATA, or the Juniatian, or The Scout, or The Indian. He may have a weekly rebirth or a yearly one, but he is ever insatiable and ever vigorous, a word-hungry, word-greedy, word-devouring larva. And then, what a proud, proud being he is when at last he emerges from his cocoon, a full-grown, winged creature! To top the miracle, his is not the life of a day, but a life lasting as long as the brush of his wings can evoke memories or inform or please. A strange creature, but we know him well.



THE JUNIATIAN

Throughout this year the Juniatian has been steadily appearing week after week, every Wednesday night. As they hastily scan the gossip column, news, then educational features, the same in form as in previous years, and in content perhaps even a little better, students do not fully appreciate the added labor necessary to the presentation of this year's Juniatian.

A shortage in the budget, a turn-over in the staff, and a lack of experienced workers at the printing establishment are all odds which the staff has had to overcome. This has entailed almost ceaseless effort on the part of the Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor. Under them, in close coöperation, were other members of the staff, News, Features, Sports, and Contributing Editors, along with those lowly newsgatherers, the cub reporters.

The making of a Juniatian begins slowly, gathering momentum as it goes. From Thursday on—when many people are assigned various articles, it grows in mass and individuality until Tuesday night when the staff gathers to amalgamate the individual mass to a smooth pattern. Proofing, headlining and the actual drawing up of the sheet evolve a paper from a conglomeration of words.

Thus, because in a time of changing conditions we are more grateful for those things which remain the same, so we pay tribute to those who have given us this year's Juniatian—as usual!

THE ALFARATA

The 1943 ALFARATA has experienced some rather unusual happenings in the line of Juniata yearbook production. As a result this year's book is somewhat smaller, and, we trust, more compact and just as pleasing to you as ever before.

Notwithstanding a few restrictions, handicaps and mistakes, we have tried to bring to you a book portraying the highlights of this past year on the campus that we hope you will want to pick up from time to time as a happy reminder of the days you spent here.

If we have seemingly neglected or under-emphasized a particular phase of campus life that you may think outstanding, we are sorry indeed, but hope you will bear with us in understanding the conditions under which we were working. There is very little that can be said in defense or explanation of a book of this kind. We give it to you for what it may mean to you now and at later times.

FRENCH CLUB

"Bon voyage, Monsieur Clemens!" The occasion for these words was the only unhappy event in an otherwise joyous year for Le Cercle Francais. Despite the loss, the Club went its merry way under the capable guidance of Miss Margaret F. McCrimmon.

Among the many and varied forms of entertainment were musicales, quiz programs, games parties, skits by individuals, and the presentation of a medieval farce entitled "La Femme Muette." In the spring of the year, the underclassmen presented a puppet show for the Seniors, who returned the honor with a similar performance.

Throughout the year the meetings were gala affairs where "on parle francais, mais peu . . . tres peu!" A happier group, more devoted to its cause, is rarely to be found.

SCRIBIMUS

If there be any writers on campus who desire an audience on which to impose a hearing of their works they must inevitably resort to Scribimus, the one group on campus designed solely for the creation, tolerance, and criticism of literary brainstorms. It is one of the purposes of Scribimus to encourage, foster, and bring into prominence good creative writing.

Several projects were taken up this year. The first was the posting of a notebook containing works of members of Scribimus. Another was the system of revolving scribes —each member took a turn in keeping the minutes in his own particular style. The most interesting project was the writing of a short story by all the members jointly. The resulting plot was both conglomerate and amusing. This group makes no attempt at impression, it exists primarily in and for itself, informal and spontaneous.

ORCHESTRA

With the advent of a new conductor this year in the person of Mr. Herman Scholl, the Juniata College Orchestra has striven to keep its reputation of former years and to attain new heights.

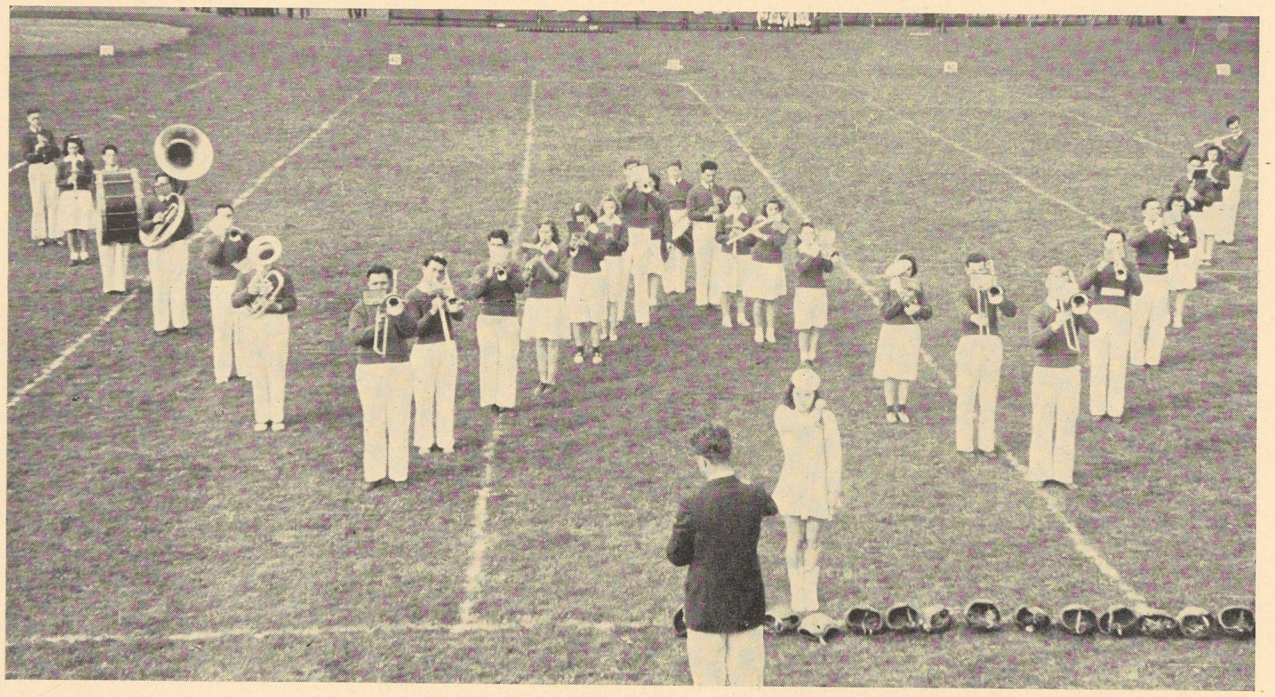
Each Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 and Thursday at 7 P.M. instrumentalists may be seen wending their way toward Oller Hall. Soon everything is in readiness, and the notes on the written page are coming forth in sound. Perhaps it doesn't sound exactly like good music at first, but practice makes perfect! Mr. Scholl has given his own time to rehearsals with each section separately on Saturday afternoons.

Instead of a first semester concert the Orchestra played a large role in the presentation of "H. M. S. Pinafore," the operetta staged by the Music Department. During the entire performance one could hear the strains of the small group of instruments accompanying the delightful voices of the cast and chorus, and both together winning the genuine approval of the audience.

The only concert of the year was presented Commencement Week in Oller Hall. Beethoven's "Symphony No. I" showed the professional gloss acquired after many hours of practice in its truly classic style. Also worthy of note was the "Piano Concerto" by Mendelssohn played by Betty Isenberg and accompanied by the Orchestra, and this same composer's "Violin Concerto" played by Irwin Hahn. These young people gave delightful renditions of the two difficult numbers.

With conditions in the world such as they are, it has been rather difficult to keep a personnel which can make each section complete. But with a little shifting here and there and the constant drive for more members, the Juniata College Orchestra has managed to remain an organization proud of its name.

THE BAND



No college is quite complete without a band, and so, we present the Juniata College Band! Under the direction of a new leader and the command of a snappy little majorette, J. C.'s Band turned out its best performance for many a year during the fall of 1942.

Shortly after the beginning of the first semester, Mr. Herman Scholl, the new music instructor, called together the nucleus of last year's organization, plus all interested students, and held tryouts. Wednesday and Friday afternoons brought the sound of drum cadence and blaring horn to the ears of students and surrounding residents as the Band whipped itself into shape. At this point it might have been said to illustrate well that quotation, "the Band is sure to please the crowd, not good, but very very loud." But things changed!

By the time the first football game came 'round, the Band was ready in good style to give the team plenty of support. Every home football game and pep meeting saw it doing its part to win the victory. Its very best performance was the part it played with the Freshman Class in the Home-Coming Football Game patriotic display. Much of the Band's color and pep took its cue from its charming majorette, Martha Swigart.

Hopes were high that the Band might continue its work and present concerts after football season closed, but Uncle Sam and the draft boards changed matters when it called many of the members into service.

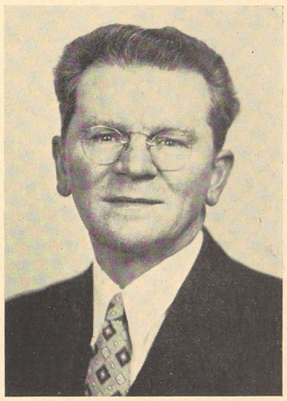
A CAPPELLA CHOIR

This year, the Juniata College Choir overcame conditions of a war world to present again a polished, masterly group capable of inciting the highest praise. Traveling conditions made it impossible for extensive trips like those made in former years, but three one-day tours to surrounding communities, including Hagerstown, Altoona, Waynesboro, and Lewistown, sufficed.

The usual routine was somewhat changed this year when a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," or, "The Lass That Loved a Sailor," was given on December 11.

In the concerts a wide and varied program containing such old favorites as "There Is a Balm in Gilead," "Tuskegee" and "Roll, Jordan Roll" by Noble Cain was offered. Two new numbers gained great popularity and were often asked to be repeated; they were "Madame Jeanette," from the French, by Murray and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Fittingly, this year the last number was a stirring arrangement of "America, the Beautiful" by Ward-Peery.



PROF. ROWLAND

The Choir was seriously weakened during the year by a loss of a number of members to the service, including Garwood Holsinger, baritone soloist for three years. A group which gave great variety to the program included Richard Long, Robert Holsinger, Merle Bair, and Dan Long, quartet, whose repertoire was composed of spiritual numbers.

During Commencement this year, the great oratorio, "The Crucifixion," by John T. Stainer, was presented by the A Cappella Choir, augumented by members of the student body and alumni.

MASQUERS

The war-accelerated courses, shortened semesters, the peril of reservists being called in mid-production—these have caused dust to gather on the pull-ropes, and have lessened the times this year that the curtain has swung rapidly back with the accompaniment of dimming house-lights, to reveal a new set (and perhaps a new student whose talent was before unknown).

Yet in a year of curtailed dramatic activity, the Masquers have proved their true interest in the theater, and not solely in that small part of the theater which is often incorrectly used to denote the whole—dramatics.

Especially was this so in the first production of the year—"H. M. S. Pinafore" on December 11. The operetta, a result of the Choir's inability to secure transportation for their usual tour, left little room for the dramatic abilities of the Masquers. However, into the cast, which was chosen from Choir personnel, did filter three who have acted under Masquer sponsorship—Daniel Long, Frances Townsend and Florence Crowell. The acting experience of these few did much to stabilize a cast which was otherwise almost completely without dramatic experience.

The greatest contributions of the Masquers to the "Pinafore" production were a Production Staff and a Director, in the person of Kathleen Burnett McCann.

MASQUERS

Through the direction of Mrs. McCann, "Pinafore" became more than a series of beautiful song melodies separated by lines of indifferently interpreted dialogue—it was more than the outstanding singers of the campus displaying their musical talents and then lapsing into mediocracy when called upon to act. "Pinafore" saw a cast which acted when it sang, and when it spoke!

Since Mrs. McCann resigned her position at the end of the semester, "Pinafore" was indeed a crowning tribute to her ability.

The Production Staff, headed by Leland Miles, included many Masquers who exchanged Jonson's "learned sock" for a pair of overalls or asbestos lighting gloves. Janet Wike and Thomas Cooney, veteran Masquer's members, handled some of the finest publicity that has heralded a Juniata production for some time; Jean Johnston worked on building and lighting crews, and Leland Miles, assistant in dramatics, served as stage manager and lighting artist. All of the production staff and crew personnel were Masquers or Masquer-trained: Estie Musser, assistant stage manager and prompter; Richard Christie, building and painting head; Sara Jane White, wardrobe mistress; Sara Jane Mattern, Mary Livengood, and two Freshman newcomers, David Long, electrician and Sam Woffindin, assistant stage manager.

And so the spirit of the Masquers has this year been the spirit of the aging and not too-successful producer, who when asked why he didn't leave the theater, replied, "I'll stay as long as they let me sweep the stage!"

LAMBDA GAMMA

"Service for others" became the club theme as the Lambda Gamma embarked on a year of activity which never fagged through the first real "war winter" on College Hill.

The "J" Club banquet, served at the Country Club on October the nineteenth, was the first goal to be established and attained. This entailed much hard work, careful planning, wholehearted coöperation, but the club proved equal to the occasion and helped to make it an outstanding event of the year.

Ever mindful of the theme the girls then prepared and sent duffel bags containing shoe-polish and other useful trifles to Juniata men overseas. The letters of thanks that were received were adequate testimony that even such small remembrances are appreciated by our boys in service.

Once a month the club devoted an evening to rolling bandages at the Red Cross Headquarters downtown. This project took the place of the social program.

Immediately following semesters the Freshmen were initiated, and, after a party in their honor, joined the ranks as full-fledged Lambda Gamma members. Later in the spring they returned the compliment and entertained their "older sisters."

The social events were almost entirely eliminated because the girls voted to spend the time on projects more suited to the war-accelerated program. The food-sales usually promoted by the Lambda Gamma were also curtailed due to point rationing.

The year's activities were brought to a close by the annual formal banquet. The old officers then resigned their duties to the new cabinet with best wishes for success in the year to come.

ALPHA BETA GAMMA

Realizing that education is seeking to develop the "whole individual," the A. B. C. Club this year sought to give its members a program of intellectual, social, and professional worth in order that they, too, might go forth to serve, better equipped to meet present needs.

Elementary education has taken great strides since the days of the "little red school-house." To appreciate one phase of its growth the A. B. C. Clubbers were privileged in hearing Miss Kathryn Oller, Huntingdon County librarian, as she showed the "Bookmobile" and stressed its importance for the teacher as well as the pupil. Professor Paul R. Yoder of our own campus provided still another phase as he spoke on "Visual Education," and actually demonstrated some of its outstanding features. Other monthly meetings included discussions of world events with their relation to education, and current professional news.

The Club owes to Miss Margaret Lindsey, its instructor and adviser, a great deal of appreciation for her untiring guidance. Student officers for this year were: Mary Beth High, President; Jane Glendenning, Vice-President; Estie Musser, Secretary; Frances Townsend, Treasurer; Betty Miller, Program Chairman.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Despite the restrictions and disadvantages in obtaining outside speakers, and in visiting near-by chemical industries, this year the Chemistry Club has functioned purely on its own talents. With each bimonthly meeting a program was planned wherein a science professor or a student would give a talk. The subjects ranged from limestone to incendiary bombs to the weight of the universe.

The real significance of the Chemistry Club lies in the fact that it is a means by which trends in Chemistry and in science in general can be given interesting and instructive correlations with other classroom studies. By the presentation of subjects and analyses not necessarily factual, but also of philosophical and novel interest, a stimulus for further classroom study is brought about.

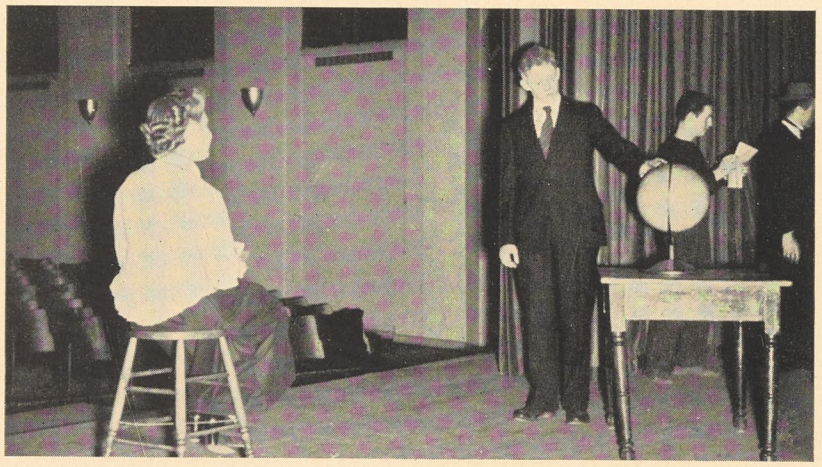
I. R. C. AND SOCIAL SCIENCE SEMINAR

Blitzkrieg—war—famine—strikes—defense—Hitler—"jolly old England" that used to be—these make up the exciting program of the International Relations Club. In this day of propaganda and censoring of foreign news, it is hard to look at the chaotic world objectively; it is even more difficult to view the war impartially. But this the Club has tried to do.

The International Relations Club has endeavored to touch upon the problem of peace between nations after this nightmare is over. It may seem idealistic and perhaps fanciful for students to attempt to solve problems much too tremendous for the greatest thinkers of our day, but the Club works from the viewpoint that mighty oaks from little acorns grow. Who knows but what the solution to the world's problems will arise from such a gathering of stimulated minds?

And part of this group—they call themselves the Social Science Seminar—get together every Thursday night and really study. This year they approached the different phases of civil liberties throughout the world, attacking the parts of our life where we do not have civil liberty. This year, besides the usual research, the members corresponded with the proper organizations to obtain authentic foundations for their papers. Many practical answers have been brought forth and discussed in this little nucleus.



ALL-CLASS NIGHT

For weeks before the important date of March 25 the whole campus was buzzing with whispered secrets, and busy theatrical managers and actors scurried between the gym and Oller Hall. "I hear the Sophomores have the best skit this year." "Well, you never can predict, the Seniors and the Juniors are sure to be a riot!" "Yes, but look how hard the Freshmen have been working." The air was filled with such speculative comments concerning the long-awaited, long-labored-over Class Night skits.

At last the house lights in Oller Hall were lowered at 8.15, Thursday night of March 25, and the Sophomore skit was presented in all its patriotic theme and glory. The action took place during a blackout in London, and the theme of American patriotism was brought to a dramatic climax. The original music by Private Ralph Harrity of the U. S. Army, formerly a Juniata Sophomore, added a great deal to this particular skit.

The Seniors were next on the program with a skit portraying the life of President Ellis, leading up to the time of his departure with the Class of 1943.

The Freshmen again adapted the patriotic theme to a very well-presented and timely performance.

When the smoke of competition had cleared away the judges presented the coveted silver cup to the jubilant Senior Class who will pass it on with all good luck and best wishes to next year's deserving winner!

CLUB

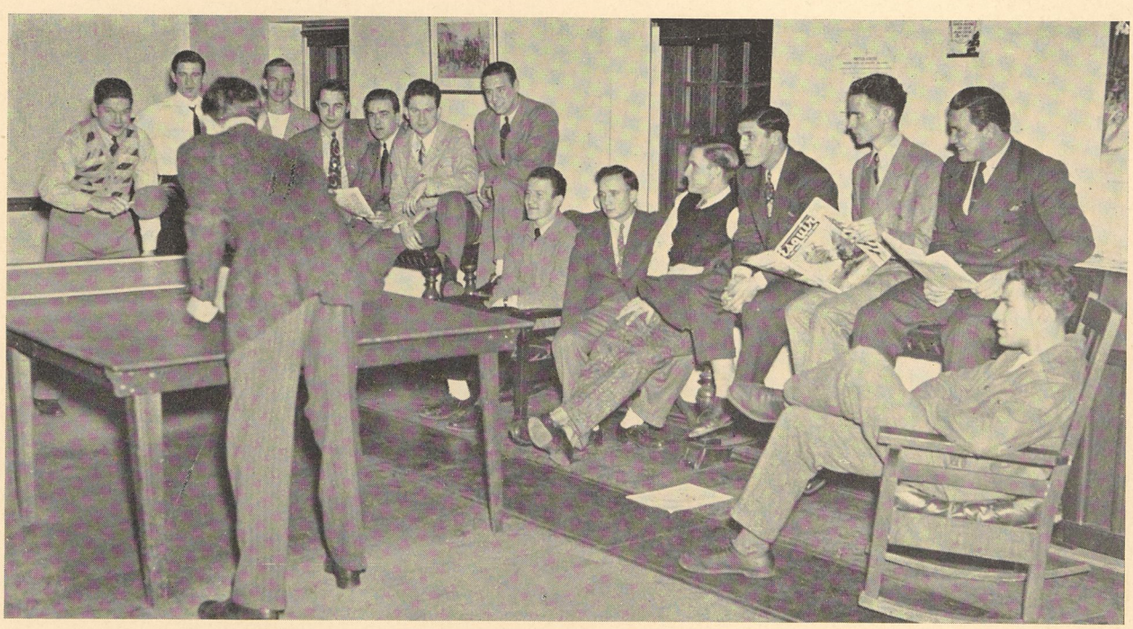
President . . . . . HOLLIS ZWICKER
Vice-President . . . . . JAMES RUTLEDGE
Secretary . . . . . CHARLES BARGERSTOCK
Treasurer . . . . . BOB HOOVER

The campus monogram club suffered naturally this year when the war cut in on its members as well as its activities. Outstanding among its losses were President Zwicker who graduated at semesters and went on to dental school at the University of Pittsburgh, and Jim Rutledge, Vice-President, who was inducted into the Army in February.

Prior to their departure, however, the Club accomplished quite a deal. The big promotion and the yearly gala event was the "J" Club Banquet which was even more gay this year as it added the finishing touches to a perfect day for a combined Homecoming-Parents' Day crowd. The "J" Club was justly proud as hosts this night for its football members had vanquished a traditional rival, Susquehanna, in the afternoon. Dr. Claude Flory, of the Class of 1915, was the guest of honor and principal speaker.

During the football season and afterward the Club raised money through various concessions in hopes of purchasing sweaters and possibly a large scoreboard for the gymnasium. Priorities cut short both ventures but the Club continued meeting throughout the year in compliance with its constitutional purposes—to provide an organization for the fellowship of athletes, to promote campus goodwill and scholastic aid to "J" Club members as well as outsiders, and permit only the highest in sportsmanship in all athletic activity.

Despite the dismal outlook in athletics for the coming year and the departure of members for other fields of battle, the Club has elected officers and hopes to continue for the duration, until the day when athletics at Juniata return to a peacetime basis.

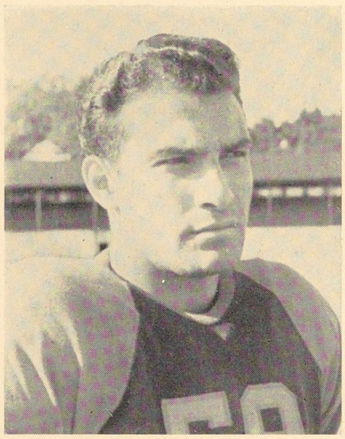


WOMEN'S SPORTS

The Women's athletic program covers a varied number of activities. Fall and spring hockey contests develop into important class rivalries, and midseason basketball games are also a major part of the athletic schedule. Volleyball is an indoor winter favorite, with co-ed games being held once a week.

Beside these major sports the Girls' Hiking Club finds that nothing is better than a long hike over the mountains, to return for a weiner roast and hot chocolate by the fire. Ping-pong tournaments were scheduled in the new recreation room, with special interest and enthusiasm developing in the mixed games.

In order to coöperate with the College physical fitness program, each girl is asked to do at least two hours of her favorite sport each week. Handball, archery, tennis, mushball and badminton all have taken their place in the girls' physical fitness program.



CAPTAIN ZWICKER

FOOTBALL

Juniata enjoyed a successful season on the gridiron last fall. They recorded wins over Drexel, Susquehanna, and Westminster. Lebanon Valley proved a consistent nemesis and Penn Military College eked out a one-point win on their own field.

When Coach M. R. Swartz left Juniata to assume directorship of a USO center in North Carolina, P. M. ("Mike") Snider became head coach and athletic director. Jack Oller was drafted as assistant coach in football and they went into action by inviting twenty-three candidates to the campus on September 14 to begin the training grind.

Greeted by a veteran array from the previous season which was bolstered by some very promising Freshmen, Coaches Snider and Oller and Captain Zwicker realized that laurels were in the offing.

Discarding the time-honored single wing-back system, the thrust introduced an inverted variation of the famed T-formation. Three days before the opening game with Drexel, Coach Snider revealed the starting line-up that would unveil the new system. Ends: Zwicker and Eisenhart. Tackles: Smith and Stewart. Guards: Hoover and Herron. Center: Dunmire. Backs: Leeper, Clapperton, Quint, and Kitman. Later Stewart and Herron were slowed by injuries and gave way to Hitesman and Gottschal and Hiney respectively.

October 10 JUNIATA 13 DREXEL 9

A large Dad's Day crowd at Drexel Field in Philadelphia was to witness the renewal of an old rivalry after cessation of one year. A safety in the first quarter and a touchdown resulting from a pass interception, plus a 24-yard jaunt by Drexel's triple-threat Michaels, put Drexel ahead at the half 9–0. In the third quarter, Andrews, a sub for Dunmire, intercepted a pass on the 50 for Juniata. Denied ground, Kitman whipped a pass to Zwicker who went 35 yards to score. Later Quint intercepted another pass on J. C.'s 40. Driving to the 17, a trick play at this point with Clapperton passing to Eisenhart in the end zone countered. Leeper converted.

October 17 JUNIATA 22 SUSQUEHANNA 12

The Crusaders came to College Hill to battle the Indians before a spirited Homecoming-Parents' Day crowd. Susquehanna scored twice in the first quarter on passes. Rebounding viciously, the Indians came back in the second half with Leeper scoring twice, Quint counting on a 40-yard sprint, and Eisenhart blocking a punt for a safety. Leeper added two placements.

FOOTBALL

OCTOBER 31 JUNIATA 28 WESTMINSTER 0

Waiting until the second half again, the J-men scored thrice in the third and once in the fourth quarter to win their third game. From the initial second-half kick-off Juniata marched to the 10 where a Clapperton-to-Quint spinner play crossed up the enemy. Seconds later Leeper went through for 67 yards and a touchdown after an interception by Quint. When Dunmire recovered a fumble for Juniata on the 11, Jaffrey passed to Eisenhart in the end zone for the third touchdown. A 45-yard return on a pass interception by Bargerstock put the ball on the 30. A pass and an end run put the ball on the 5 from where Postlethwaite scored on a quarterback sneak.

NOVEMBER 7

JUNIATA 0 LEBANON VALLEY 27

Coach Snider took the team to Annville to battle the Dutchmen before their Homecoming crowd. Juniata never threatened whereas Lebanon Valley played hard-driving football mixed with some very effective passing. Clapperton and Kitman sustained serious injuries which shelved them for the rest of the season.

NOVEMBER 14 JUNIATA 13 P. M. C. 14

Drives of 80 and 81 yards and the successful conversions repelled the Indians at Chester. Juniata scored when Quint intercepted a pass in the second quarter to go 42 yards to tally and in the last quarter when Tesi took Bargerstock's pass for 22 yards in the end zone. A strong cross-wind on try-from-placement cost Juniata the game.

ON THE TRACK

The cindermen had meets with Drexel and Susquehanna and sent representatives to the Penn Relays and Middle Atlantics.

A relay team composed of Thorn, Pentz, Quint, Noffsinger, and Shope failed to gain possession of the Wanamaker Cup on which Juniata has two legs in the Penn Relays.

The following week the team was downed by Drexel 73–53 in the Quaker City. Drexel's superiority in the running events won. Freeman (2 mile), Bowser (shot-put), Rutledge (pole-vault), Thorn (high-jump), Pentz (broad-jump) and Leeper (javelin) were Juniata winners.

Susquehanna was taken 70–56 at Selinsgrove as Thorn took a triple and Leeper and Freeman were double winners. Bowser and Rutledge won firsts also. Thorn set a new college high-jump record by clearing 6 feet 2 inches.

Juniata was represented by Thorn and Rutledge in the Middle Atlantics.

TENNIS

The veteran net team of Captain Ayres, Griffith, Gehrett, Stewart, and Hunt engaged Elizabethtown, Susquehanna, and Bucknell in six matches. Porter, Jahnke, Harlacker, and Mickle were new men who saw action through the season.

April 25. Traveling to Susquehanna they were defeated 6–3. Hunt won his singles and he and Porter and Griffith and Stewart scored in doubles matches.

April 30. Elizabethtown won 5–4 here as Stewart, Griffith, and Porter won singles and Porter and Jahnke won their doubles match.

May 1. Bucknell came here and won 8–1 with Ayres garnering the team's only point.

May 7. Juniata won their first match by downing an invading Susquehanna team 7–2. Ayres, Porter, Hunt, Gehrett, and Stewart won in singles.

May 13. Elizabethtown was beaten here by a 7–2 count. Again Ayres, Stewart, Hunt, and Gehrett won singles.

BASKETBALL

The return of Captain Conley, Querry, Leeper, H. Eisenhart, Blough, Kitman, and Clapperton gave Coach Snider the greater part of a team that had broken even in 14 games the previous season. Also Freshmen Brumbaugh, Wineland, Wareham, Tesi, Rollo, and Hastings were to prove their mettle in battle. The first four mentioned, along with Querry, composed the team that defeated the F. & M. Cadets, Fort Meade, and Susquehanna to end the season.

Throughout the year the team was being sapped of its power. To begin with, Coach Snider left the second week in February for Chapel Hill, N. C., to begin his training after being commissioned a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy. He was with the team in eight games before Jack Oller took over the coaching reins. Previously, Blough had been lost by a knee injury and Kitman had left school. Five days after Lieutenant Snider's departure, lanky "Hank" Eisenhart and Rollo were inducted into the Army. Later in the month Leeper and Clapperton were called into the Air Corps. Ake, F. Eisenhart, and Gromley came up from the Junior Varsity to fill the depleted ranks.

Despite this constant drain they managed to win 5 of 12 games while outscoring the opposition 537 to 484.

DEC. 10—LANCASTER: Coach Snider led his charges against F. & M. and lost 41–36. Querry had 13 points.

DEC. 11—ELIZABETHTOWN: The Indians won their first of the season by repelling Elizabethtown 49–41. Querry again had 13 points.

JAN. 9—HOME: Against Elizabethtown in our first home game the J-men fashioned a 52–26 win with the varsity in action three quarters. Querry was high with 12 points and Eisenhart and Clapperton, who was playing his first game, had 11 each.

JAN. 30—HOME: The St. Vincent Bearcats behind 19–18 at the half and 33–22 at the end of the third period arose and hung a 41–35 defeat on us. Eisenhart had 11 points.

BASKETBALL

Feb. 3—Selinsgrove: In the first game of an old rivalry Susquehanna won 48–37 after spotting Juniata to a 21–13 lead at half. Eisenhart was again high with 10 points.

Feb. 4—Lewisburg: Bucknell won in a breeze 45–30. Only 15 points in the last quarter (Clapperton with 4 baskets) saved face for J. C. Clapperton had 10 points.

Feb. 8—Latrobe: In the second game with the Bearcats, the Indians led 6–4 and 17–16 the first two periods. They went behind 29–23 the third and St. Vincent won in a riotous finish (a real riot too!) as Captain Phillips sank two foul shots to give his team a 40–39 win. Brumbaugh had 15 points.

Feb. 9—New Wilmington: Displaying sterling ball J. C. played Westminster on even terms for three periods before succumbing to a superior attack to lose 52–47. Eisenhart had 14 points.

Feb. 10—Youngstown: Playing on a foreign court against a nationally famous team, the Indians won a moral victory in losing to the Youngstown Penguins 55–50. Clapperton had 14 and Eisenhart 13.

Feb. 24—Home: F. & M. Pre-Flight Cadets were downed 54–33 as Leeper and Clapperton finished glorious collegiate careers. The latter had 22 points to tie the Juniata record he had set the year before against Wheaton College.

Feb. 27—Home: Another service team bit the dust as Juniata's "new" team beat Fort Meade 59–39. Wareham had 14 and Brumbaugh 13.

Mar. 4—Home: The season closed with a 48–23 revenge win over Susquehanna. Querry had 14 points to make him high-point man for the season with 107.

BASEBALL

With early-season predictions against them, the 1942 edition of the Juniata baseball team upset the sportscasters by emerging with the brilliant record of 8 wins and 2 defeats.

Returning veterans were Minaya, Reklis, Corle, Eisenhart, Bargerstock, Botteicher, Querry, Simkins and Frye. Standout Freshmen candidates included Clapperton, Kitman, W. Lang, Jaffrey, and Mickle.

Overcoming a potential weak mound staff and receiving ample fielding and hitting support, the Blue and Gold threatened the records of past Indian teams.

With veteran Ed Minaya hurling three-hit ball, the Indians edged Bucknell, 4–2, in the season's opener. The game, which launched the season for both teams, was characterized by the usual early-season nervousness.

The Blue and Gold made it three in a row with victories over American University and Susquehanna. On the local field, big "Hank" Eisenhart gained his first collegiate win as the Capitol boys fell, 6–5. Susquehanna offered little resistance as the Crusaders were completely annihilated, 17–4, at Selinsgrove. Minaya and Reklis shared the mound duties while Querry and Clapperton led the 20-hit orgy with 4 safeties apiece.

St. Vincent handed the Tribe its first defeat in four starts, 6–2. Ahead 2–1 as late as the eighth, the locals weakened behind Eisenhart to fall before a ninth-inning rally. W. Lang and Bargerstock shared hitting honors.

Getting back on the victory trail, the Swartzmen humbled Elizabethtown, 7–2, for their fourth win. Making his first start of the year, Tony Reklis went the entire distance, scattering 6 hits effectively.

Off stride again, the Indians were nosed out by Lebanon Valley, 8–7, in a game played on foreign soil. Minaya gave up 12 hits before yielding to "Hank" Eisenhart on the mound. In a return game with Susquehanna, the Tribe again exploded at bat and afield to register a 21–1 runaway. Featuring the 21-hit barage were the big bats of Jaffrey, Bargerstock and Querry.

Victory number six came at the expense of St. Vincent, who fell, 8–3, before the left-handed slants of "Hank" Eisenhart. Chalking up number seven in the victory column, the Indians turned aside Elizabethtown, 10–7. Clapperton's "4 for 6" and Eisenhart's home-run featured the Tribe's 12-hit assault.

Before a large Alumni Day crowd, the Indians rang down the season's curtain in auspicious fashion by humbling Drexel, 5–2. Aided by the power hitting of Bargerstock, Ed Minaya finished his college career in a blaze of glory by racking up his third win. Saying adieu with Minaya to College sports were Reklis, Simkins, Botteicher, and Corle.

BEING A WOMAN, I must have the last word. It is with mingled emotions that we complete the 1943 ALFARATA: We are sad because we are at the end of a very pleasant experience; we are happy because we can now come out of hibernation from our den (the ALFARATA room) and find out how the rest of the world is living.

We've had nightmares about the book coming out printed in invisible ink. We've thought at times maybe it wouldn't even come out.

We've made mistakes—plenty of them. All complaints can be mailed to Alaska; we're getting away from it all. If you don't have the price of a stamp just tell next year's editor; she may profit by them.

Seriously, we do hope that we've given you a souvenir ALFARATA that you will like in spite of a few necessary reductions this year.

The Staff is especially grateful to Dr. Binkley not only for his concrete and valuable suggestions, but for his encouragement in our darkest moments. Mr. Sargent has been a great help in guiding our Business Staff in stretching the budget. Harold Brumbaugh deserves no little credit for helping in many, many ways whenever we have called upon him. The J. Horace McFarland Company, of Harrisburg, has contributed perhaps most of all to the success of the book, and we are very grateful to all who have helped in any way.

We hope you've liked it.

Juniata College...

The 1943 ALFARATA presents to you the Juniata of 1942–43. It is a record in pictures and words of the development of our college through another year.

The past year has brought many changes for Juniata as well as for the rest of the world. In order to meet the demands of the world for trained individuals, Juniata has put into effect an accelerated program to make graduation possible in three years. This is being accomplished by enlarging the summer session and intensifying the winter curriculum. Juniata students may find it necessary to sacrifice some non-essentials, but this will be in keeping with the spirit of the times.

While the days ahead will tax the best in individuals and institutions, we are confident that Juniata and Juniatians have their lives grounded on a foundation of real values that will stand firm through the stormiest days.
